

BECOMING A CERTIFIED INSTRUCTOR

Becoming a Monty Roberts Instructor provides unique skills in the equine industry, learning to train in the absence of violence - with excellent performance too.

1

Begin with the Introductory Course of Horsemanship: 2 weeks of horse work and classroom study at the Monty Roberts International Learning Center (MRILC). Learn the Join-Up® method, Dually™ halter skills, long lining, herding exercises, trailer loading as well as equine psychology, physiology and nutrition. All skill levels are welcome.

2

Next step is distance learning, practice and field study at home with video assessment provided by the MRILC, helping determine readiness to take the Introductory Course exam.

Return to the MRILC for the exam. Passing the exam provides the opportunity to take the Advanced Horsemanship Course.

3

4

The Advanced Horsemanship Course can only be taken at the MRILC and consists of 3 weeks of training unstarted and untouched horses as well as remedial ones, and the in-depth study of equine psychology.

5

Again, distance learning, practice and field study at home with video assessment provided by the MRILC, helping determine readiness to take the Advanced Course exam at the MRILC.

6

After successfully completing this curriculum, selected students are invited back for the 3+ month instructor's internship to develop teaching skills - the final requirement for Monty Roberts Instructor certification.
